RESENT CUTTING OFF WATER. Residents of Anacostia Demand Usual Advance Notice.

Indignant because their water supply was cut off Monday morning without the usual advance notice, the residents of Anacostia are contemplating bringing the matter to the attention of the Commissioners, so that a possible recurrence of the affair may be prevented.

The flow of water in the Anaccetia main was cut off between 9 and 10:30 o'clock in the morning, just at the time of their weekly clothes washing. The supply was temporarily shut off in order that the water department might make certain changes in the fire-plus system.

CUSTOM GOES OVERBOARD.

The revolutionary overthrow of a timebeen allowed representation in the offic of second vice president, is directly at-tributed to H. A. Smith, the newly elect-ed president, who offered the masculine selections. The explanation is that men alone can carry out the work during the ensuing year of keeping the council allve and active, and beauty must, therefore, give way to energy.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY. By A. W. MACY.

GEN. PIKES TRAGIC DEATH.

During the war of 1812 an expedition was organized by Gen. Henry Dearborn for the capture of the British forts on Lake Ontarlo. The first one attacked was Fort York, where Toronto now stands. The attacking column was led by Gen. Zebulon M. Pike The outer battery had been taken by assault and the guns of the main battery silenced. While waiting for the garrison to raise the white flag Gen. Pike seated himself on a log and began talk-ing with a British prisoner. In-stead of running up the white flag as expected, the British commander ordered his men to re-treat, and then had the powder magazine blown up. Fifty-two American soldiers were killed by the explosion, and 180 wounded. A huge stone fell upon Gen. Pike, breaking his back, and he died a few hours later. Thus perished one of our great explorers, the discoverer of Pikes Peak, at the early age of thirty-four. (Copyright, 1911, by Joseph B. Bowlen)

RUZZIE LAMB SMILES AT LETTERS READ IN COURT

Likewise Sentimental Love Notes Cause Laughter to Part of Spectators at Breach of Promise Suit.

New York, Oct. II.—Endearing terms and affectionate phrases, both written and spoken, thickened the atmosphere of the Supreme Court again to-day as evidence was given and testimony taken in the £0,000 breach-of-promise suit, which "Ruzzie Lamb" Gardner Griswold, E young chorus man, has brought against Helen Woodruf Smith, of Stamford Conn., divorced wife of Homer Cummins, three times mayor of that city. Letters and postals without number were read to show the love of the matronly Brunhilds for the youthful Siegfried.

At one stage of the proceedings Miss Smith furned to the reporters to declare that she "didn't know what those letters had to do with the piece of cheese," referring, evidently, to her erstwhile ardent twooer. Attorney Gordon read to show that his election to show the love of the matronly Brunhilds for the youthful Siegfried.
